

Who is CARF?

CARF is an international organization known to set standards of performance within the health care sectors. They award a one, two or three year accreditation based on the degree to which an organization meets their standards.

What is CARF Accreditation?

It is a rigorous set of internationally recognized standards which are reviewed during an on-site two day survey. Accountability and quality are the objectives, the approach allows our organization to incorporate the CARF standards into practices to reflect our unique mission, vision, and values.

Being accredited would mean our organization has passed an in-depth review, and our organization meets rigorous CARF guidelines for service and quality.
